

NEW LIVING FOR THE RETIRING TYPE

Poised to make an impression on the luxury retirement market, renowned builder, Ravidia Group, has launched its founding project of its retirement division, 'Renaissance Living'.

Designed by JAM Architects, with interior specialists, Peter Strachan Interiors, Renaissance Living features a modern classic design coupled with practical, low-maintenance living options to provide the ultimate lifestyle for active seniors. The 43 apartments comprise one, two and three bedroom residences with private balconies, allocated undercover car parking, stylish communal areas and a central landscaped courtyard.

The complex boasts an 'Active Health and Leisure Centre' comprising a pool, spa, gym and massage rooms, along with a range of amenity, including: restaurant and bar, private function room, library, games room, workshop, communal garden, central court yard and 24 hour emergency assistance.

Ravidia Group Managing Director, Don Ravidia says, "Our apartments feature the best in design and comfort with many facilities that will encourage our residents to maintain an active lifestyle... Australia's population is ageing with the baby boomers now entering retirement and demanding luxurious living solutions for the over 55s market."
